

“A bad earthquake at once destroys the oldest associations; the world, the very emblem of all that is solid, had moved beneath our feet like a crust over a fluid; one second of time has created in the mind a strong idea of insecurity, which hours of reflection would not have produced.”

— CHARLES DARWIN [reflecting on the devastating (M ~ 8.5) February 20, 1835, earthquake in Concepción, Chile]

ATLAS

SYMPOSIUM ON SEISMOTECTONICS OF THE NORTH-WESTERN ANATOLIA - AEGEAN AND RECENT TURKISH EARTHQUAKES (May 8, 2001 Tuesday)

Editor: Tuncay Taymaz

ATLAS

SCIENTIFIC ACTIVITIES 2001
İSTANBUL TECHNICAL UNIVERSITY
FACULTY OF MINES

SYMPOSIUM ON

SEISMOTECTONICS OF
THE NORTH-WESTERN ANATOLIA - AEGEAN AND RECENT TURKISH
EARTHQUAKES

May 8, 2001 - Tuesday
Istanbul Technical University (İTÜ)
Süleyman Demirel Cultural Centre

